

Conclusion of the Nordic Baltic festival conference in Harpa, Reykjavík on October 6th 2011.

45 delegates from 10 countries hosting more than 900 festivals agree on the following statement:

The festival form is especially well suited to communicate artistic and cultural experience, being a uniquely creative way of reaching different audiences of all ages.

This conference concludes that culture and the arts hold fundamental social and economic value in our respective countries. They deserve to be given greater attention and higher priority in the making of political decisions.

Reykjavik October 6th 2011

Peter Eriksson

President, Swedish Music Festivals

Conclusion of the Nordic Baltic festival conference in Harpa, Reykjavík on October 6th 2011.

45 delegates from 10 countries hosting more than 900 festivals agree on the following statement:

The festival form is especially well suited to communicate artistic and cultural experience, being a uniquely creative way of reaching different audiences of all ages.

This conference concludes that culture and the arts hold fundamental social and economic value in our respective countries. They deserve to be given greater attention and higher priority in the making of political decisions.

John Latham
Jie Toffler
Marko Kolunys
Steenmetz
Signe Kuis

J.P.A.
[Signature]

Janil
[Signature]
Benedict Broberg

Tore Yström

Chaga Räs Ingólfsson

[Signature]

Åke Blom
John Latham

[Signature]
[Signature]
[Signature]

[Signature]
Kaita Puumä
Jeva Tamutyte

[Signature]
DANUS SURANTHI

[Signature]
[Signature]
SEMF

[Signature]

Jens Stori

Mari Tattar